Dayshift had another active day. While officers were usually busy handling calls for service, only a few required a report to document the event. Officers responded to a report of a subject who was passed out and slumped over the steering wheel of his truck. Officers arrived and located the red truck in question, with the engine running, and in the middle of the intersection. The occupant was not responsive and officers located a piece of foil with black burnt lines on it. This indicated that the driver had ingested narcotics, eventually overdosing. The fire department broke the vehicle window and extracted the driver. He was given Narcan and eventually woke up. He was taken to a local hospital for treatment, then taken to jail for driving under the influence. Officers also found prescription pills, as well as illegal narcotics in the vehicle.
